BURANGI VILLAGE

Burangi, a small village nestled along the banks of the vast river Sabaki in Kilifi North, has long struggled with malaria. The river, a vital source of water and livelihood, also served as a breeding ground for mosquitoes, making malaria a constant threat to the villagers.

For years, families suffered devastating losses. Children missed school and parents lost valuable workdays due to hippos, crocodiles and alligators invading and from malaria and Dengue Fever. Some never recovered from the malaria and Dengue Fever. The village clinic, though dedicated, often found itself overwhelmed. But everything changed when PFC, stepped in with a simple yet life-saving solution: free insecticide-treated bed nets for every household.

At first, many villagers were skeptical. Some had never used a bed net before, while others doubted its effectiveness. But with patient education from PFC staff and volunteers, people learned how to use them properly. Soon, a transformation began.

Within months, malaria cases dropped drastically. Families started sleeping peacefully without the constant buzz of mosquitoes. Mothers no longer feared putting their children to bed. Farmers returned to their fields with renewed energy, and students attended school regularly.

One of the most heartwarming stories is that of Amina, a mother of three, who had lost a child to malaria years ago. “I used to stay awake at night, checking if my children had a fever,” she recalls. “Now, I sleep peacefully, knowing they are safe.”

Health workers in Burangi report that the number of malaria-related hospital visits has decreased by over 70% since the bed nets were distributed. The impact is undeniable.

The success of Burangi has inspired nearby villages to adopt similar measures. Malaria and Dengue Fever have decreased in these villages. Seeing the joy and relief in the faces of villagers, PFC has expanded its program distributing 50,000 bed nets this year ensuring that no one has to suffer from a malaria and Dengue Fever again.

A simple net, a priceless impact—Burangi stands as a testament to how small acts of kindness can change lives forever.

We are grateful to the donor who made this possible.
