HISTORY

The program began in 2017 when Sammy Mwangi, the Executive Director of Partners for Care, visited Mobility Worldwide in Columbia, Missouri (MW MO-CO). Noticing the sewing machines in their workshop, he envisioned their potential to make a significant impact in Kenya. Gary Moreau, the Executive Director (MW MO-CO), spoke with Sammy about his interest. Upon hearing Sammy's vision for empowering Kenyan women, Gary asked how many machines he wanted. Sammy's request for 20 sewing machines marked the beginning of the first PFC sewing school, launching a powerful and ongoing collaboration.

To turn this vision into reality, Connie Cheren, PFC's Founder/President, asked Cara Canon, a US Partners for Care board member, to fund the opening of the first sewing school. Cara agreed, and the first school was opened at the PFC house in Nairobi. The sewing program grew quickly, and now we have 960 sewing machines and operate 82 sewing schools. PFC began to partner with religious institutions, learning institutions, prisons, community-based organizations (CBOs), refugee camps and non-governmental organizations (NGO's) to expand its reach and impact. At the beginning of each partnership, a Memorandum of Understanding is signed by both parties, and the partner receives 9 sewing machines, a serger machine and a PFC three-month curriculum. In this Memorandum of Understanding, they have to ensure that they have a qualified teacher, a secure place for the sewing machines, and that they send in monthly reports.

Sisters of Mercy first graduation

To date, there have been 9,372 graduates, with 1,526 new students who have enrolled in the first quarter of 2026. These graduates are now applying their skills in the workforce, with many finding employment or starting their own tailoring businesses—a transformative step toward self-sufficiency and family support.

This program forms a critical network of skill development, transforming lives and communities from the ground up. With a presence in 22 out of 47 counties, the program demonstrates a strategic commitment to broad geographic impact.

MORE THAN A BOX

Boxes are made by Mobility Worldwide in order to safely ship the sewing machines.

In the box, are all of the necessary equipment to set up sewing, including scissors, tape measures, seam rippers, buttons, thimbles, zips, threads, needles, tracing wheels and pin cushions that have been gathered by volunteers.

We then repurpose the boxes, transforming them into beautiful storage seats.

THE SEWING MACHINES

Sewing machines are donated to Mobility Worldwide. Then Jim Weisbrook and James Sandfry repair these machines and ship them to Partners for Care.

We receive three types of machines: portable sewing machines, machines that have been removed from cabinets and specialised sewing machines. The machines that have been removed from cabinets need to be placed in boxes that we build.

Some of the machines are converted to treadle and placed on a sewing machine table, so people can learn to sew even when there is no electricity.

In early 2025, 60 unrepaired sewing machines were shipped to PFC. Our three technicians, Mr. John Kongo, Mr. Julius Mwangi, and Mr. Daniel Matheka, successfully repaired these machines, which set up six sewing schools. And since then, we have received an additional 111 unrepaired sewing machines that have been repaired and used to set up 11 more schools.

BENEFICIARIES

Milkah Kathambi

"As a single mother of two, my life has been a journey of faith and hope. I faced the constant struggle to provide for my family.

My life began changing when I learned about Partners for Care Nairobi Sewing School and enrolled. There, I learned skills that shaped my future.

After losing my first job due to COVID-19, I started my own business making school uniforms on a rented sewing machine. Now, I am now a self-sufficient and thriving entrepreneur. I own four sewing machines and employ three people who are able to support their families.

"Reflecting on my journey, I realize that the skills I gained were life-changing. They gave me hope and the tools to build a better life for my children. Now, I provide for my family and help others too!"

"We all have the power to make a positive impact on the world. It starts with small acts of kindness and compassion."— Evelyn Laude

Tabitha Nyokabi

My name is Tabitha Nyokabi. Growing up, I was fascinated by my aunt's tailoring shop. Watching her create beautiful outfits sparked a dream in me to learn how to sew.

After finishing primary school, my hopes for secondary education were dashed due to my family's financial struggles. My parents are small-scale farmers, and could barely make ends meet. Still, I never let go of my dream.

In 2024, my life changed. I picked up a flier advertising the Tirus and Esther Foundation Sewing School, a Partners for Care partner school I was overjoyed. My dream was finally within reach! I visited the school and completed the training.

Today, I am employed, making uniforms and earning an income to support my family. I am hardworking, ambitious, and dream of owning my own tailoring business someday, as I save to buy my own sewing machine."
